WELCOME TO PULLMAN
#PullmanProud! That we are!
#GoCougs! #PullmanSD! We are very much that, too!

Pullman is a close-knit family and a caring and supportive community, where public safety, social services, education, wellness, environment, economic development and infrastructure are topics that we value. As we strive to continually reach our future vision for Pullman, our qualities are unmistakable.

The small-town comfort is clear for residents and visitors alike. In addition to athletic and cultural amenities provided by Washington State University, our local theatres, school district and Parks and Recreation department are active and rewarding for all ages.

We are surrounded by farmland richly defined by the highs and lows of the Palouse. What is ‘the Palouse’? A region 3-4,000 miles in size, filled with distinct geological formations created by a wave of volcanic activity millions of year ago, followed by floods from Montana, then fine silt from prehistoric wind storms. All of these forces created the beauty of the gently rolling hills, with soil so fertile for the wheat, peas, barley and lentils that are abundantly produced in our region.

With plenty to do and to see, the Pullman Chamber of Commerce is close at hand to offer more suggestions. Stay current with our local events at pullmanchamber.com. Discover the three legs of the Palouse Scenic Byway, an incredible 208-mile journey through the area at palouseexcursions.org. Save the date and return to visit us for the National Lentil Festival on August 17th-18th, 2018. For more information visit

Late spring and early summer are certainly the best times of the year for photographing greens and then the golden fields of wheat. May and early June often have less stable weather, resulting in a bit more of a gamble for photographers on a tight schedule, but also hold greater potential for dramatic light. Winter in the Palouse is often gray, but a clear sunrise over fields freshly dusted with snow can be a real prize to a photographer lucky enough to be out at the right time. This is also the best time for raptor viewing.

The museum also houses a great deal of Palouse’s local history in photos and artifacts.

Watch your step, but keep your eyes open and look around! Main Street in Palouse is on the National Register of Historic Places. Landmarks call City Hall at (509) 284-3861. Visit tekoachamber.com

Situated in the awe-inspiring scenery of golden wheat fields, Garfield is a refreshing change from the fast-paced hustle and bustle of the modern world.

Step back in time at the R.C. McCroskey House, a national historic site. The town has a beautiful park, swimming pool and you can stop for coffee and shopping at the Meet Shop Too! In September and October, it’s U-Pick apple harvest time at Bishops’ Orchard. You can even press your own cider. ROSSALIA Steptoe Battlefield marks the location where the last Indian victory over the U.S. Army occurred in May of 1858. This historic battle with 158 mounted troops, facing between 600 and 1,200 warriors, ended with a cease-fire that gave an opportunity for Colonel Steptoe’s escape back to Fort Walla Walla. Check out the Rosalia Museum for exhibits on this, as well as a meteorite that was found near Rosalia. For information on the town, stop at their Visitor’s Center, which is housed in a renovated Texaco Station, originally built in 1925, and now features an electric vehicle charging station.

TEKOIA

Halfway between Spokane and Pullman on scenic highway 27, Tekoa is the perfect stop for those with a passion for photography, bicycling, golf, farming, and history. Visit the landmark art deco style Empire Theatre built in 1940. Order a latte at the coffee shop next door and then tour 3 floors of the Tekoa Museum. Stay for a meal at one of their hometown restaurants.

Photographic opportunities surround Tekoa, including the old Milwaukee Railroad Trestle, hang gliders floating off Tekoa Mountain, 1908 Old City Hall building, and nearby Steptoe Butte. You’ll see a bounty of wheat, barley, lentils, and garbanzo beans in the fields. Tekoa is a thriving community that supports over 20 small businesses and an airport. For more information, or to arrange a tour of one of the landmarks call City Hall at (509) 284-5861. Visit tekoa chamber.com

Colfax, Almota, Snake River

COLFA

A community that is alive with small town friendliness and serves as the county seat. Colfax was named in honor of Schuyler Colfax, who was vice president during President U.S. Grant’s first administration (1869-75). James S. Perkins was cofounder and the first permanent resident of Colfax. Shortly after his arrival in 1870, he began building a log cabin in which the first Republican convention in the county was held in 1872. A visit to this charming town might include a stop at a local coffee shop or restaurant, a round of golf at the beautiful 9-hole course situated on the Palouse River, or viewing the latest art exhibit at The Center at Colfax Library.

SNAKE RIVER & WAWAPAI PARK

Located at Boyer Park and Marina 22 miles southwest of Pullman, the Snake River Trail stretches 4.5 miles from the bank of historic Almota Creek, which was a Lewis and Clark Expedition stop, through Boyer Park and eastward to the base of Lower Granite Dam. The trail features accessible and non-motorized access as well as a series of interpretive signs dealing with the Columbia Snake River system, dams, geology and transport of commodities. The park also provides fishing, swimming, and a boat ramp. Contact Boyer Park (509) 397-3208

Wawapai Park is 16 miles southwest of Pullman, and a beautiful park with picnic facilities, camping, fishing, and a hiking trail. For more information visit whitman county.org

SOUTH

Colton, Uniontown

COLTON

The Colton story began in 1878 when L.J. Wolford, Roy Woodworth and Dr. Cole, being dissatisfied with the proprietor of Uniontown, decided to found a town of their own. The name came from the first three letters of Dr. Cole’s last name and the last three letters of Mr. Wolford’s son, Clinton. Visit St. Gall’s Catholic Church built in 1905 which retains the original architecture and stained-glass windows. Schedule some target practice at the Colton Gun Club. Colton is famous for its holiday lights which can be viewed from the comfort of your car anytime in December.

UNIONTOWN

Settled by German immigrants from Minnesota in the 1870s, Uniontown offers a great experience for those who stop. When the Dalmeny Barn was donated to the community in 2009, volunteers rolled up their sleeves and donated over 5,000 hours to transform the building into an art center. Located behind the famous fence of over 1,000 iron wagon wheels, this fully accessible facility provides studio space for artists and hosts live performances, special artist receptions and offers classes and workshops. Be sure to get up close and personal to Wheeletta Whistle, the largest-than-life metal cow sculpture adjacent to the highway between Uniontown and the town of Colfax. Visit St. Boniface Church, the first consecrated Catholic Church in the state of Washington. It houses the original five altars, statues, stained glass, stenciled décor and oil painted Stations of the Cross. Tours are available. Pick up some coffee and fresh baked goodies at the New Sage Baking Company. A great stop for treasure hunting with half a dozen antique and second-hand shops. More history, details about businesses, services and events can be found at uniontown.us

LACROSSE

Small Stone Houses were built between 1914 and 1936 by Clint Dobson, a local businessman. Three houses and three cabins were built of basalt stones gathered from the area as rental units for local farm hands and workers. These quaint little houses are in the process of fundraising toward renovation. Stop at the beautifully restored Lacrosse Market and Gathering Place.

The Palouse Scenic Byway
The magic is everywhere
PHOTO TIPS

Time of Year: Velvety green hills appear on the Palouse in late April and peak near late June, with wildflowers growing mostly on uncultivated areas during May and June. Grass fields are harvested beginning in late June to early July, and harvest of golden crops occurs around late July—early September, depending on the location and weather.

Time of Day: Generally, photographing the Palouse in the early morning or late afternoon/early evening provides the best light needed for showing off the shapes of hills and textures of fields and barn wood. Low side-lighting at these times creates shadows that make the hills more visible and dramatic. If you don’t have much time to photograph, concentrate your efforts during these time periods.

Encourage Your Creativity Photograph with your own creative spirit! Popular photographic locations are photographed repeatedly — remember, the Palouse is not just about the hills! Consider farm equipment, waterways, flora, fauna, close-ups, non-cultivated scenes, and people, towns.

Change your physical relationship to the landscape to see something new. Crouch low to the ground, lay on your back or side, walk over a hill, get off the trail, shoot in “loousy” weather or lighting conditions. Try photographing close to barns and other private property and graciously thank landowners whenever possible.

ABOUT ALISON MEYER

Alison Meyer has been a professional photographer since 1991, selling her photographs to thousands world-wide. Her photography is sold at many shops, fairs and galleries, including the Pullman Chamber of Commerce, at the Moscow Farmers Market, and on her website, AlisonMeyerPhotography.com.

Alison’s photographs are displayed in homes and work places on six continents and have appeared in numerous magazines and books, including her books “Palouse Perspective” and “The Palouse – A Favorite Place” and her Palouse calendars since 2004, as well as in many commercial displays and advertisements. Alison was also featured in IdahoPTV’s Outdoor Idaho’s “Picturing Idaho” and the documentary “Visions on the Palouse”.

Carry A Tripod A tripod allows you to use slower shooting speeds without blur resulting from camera movement. This allows you to choose a small aperture (higher f-stop), which provides greater depth of field (the area of the scene that is in focus). You won’t need or want a tripod for every shot, but when you find yourself viewing gorgeous light over a broad landscape, you’ll be glad you have it with you, especially if you want to print very large sharply focused photographs.

Ask Permission Returning the kindness to landowners who are welcoming to the cars and photographers stopped on their road sides and driveways can go a long way toward keeping these locals amenable to future visits. Barns that appear abandoned, seemingly deserted homesteads, and cultivated fields in Idaho and Washington are not public domain. Get permission to enter agricultural fields and to photograph close to barns and other private property and graciously thank landowners whenever possible.

WELCOME TO PULLMAN

On behalf of The Pullman Chamber of Commerce, I am thrilled to welcome you to our community. Whether you are a new resident, an incoming student or simply a visitor to our wonderful town, I encourage you to immerse yourself in all that Pullman has to offer.

People often ask me what it is that makes Pullman so special. For me, it comes down to the following:

QUALITY OF LIFE
Pullman's affordability and safety make it an exceptional place to live, study, do business and make a home. We were recently ranked #8 on SafestW's Safest College Towns in America. Our schools consistently land among the best in Washington State. If you’re looking for a good place to raise a family, this is it.

RECREATION
The Palouse area is a major recreational hub in the Inland Northwest. From fishing on the Snake River and hiking the Palouse Scenic Byway to exploring our trails and photographing wildlife, there is an abundance of opportunities to get outdoors.

Pullman is also filled with parks, playfields and miles of pathways, which lands us at #10 in the nation for “Walk to Work” communities (streetblog.org).

PULLMAN IS BUSINESS FRIENDLY!
Rich Ecosystem helps small businesses thrive in Pullman and nearby communities.

WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY
Pullman is home to Washington State University, a beautiful, world-class research university with top-notch athletics. WSU’s Multiple Division I sports teams is known as one of the toughest places for visiting teams to play. WSU also provides countless educational and cultural opportunities to residents and visitors alike.

DINING & ENTERTAINMENT
Pullman’s Main Street and historic downtown are home to stylish boutiques, delicious restaurants, movies, theatre, laser tag, mini golf and karaoke.

Summer in Pullman is not to be missed. Each July, Pullman hosts one of Eastern Washington’s premier fireworks shows. In August, the National Lentil Festival comes to town, drawing thousands of visitors to celebrate the versatile crop, watch cooking competitions, drink craft beer, take in a parade and listen to national musical artists on our main stage.

The annual 5-day intensive “Be the Entrepreneur Bootcamp” in early June, offers an opportunity to quickly learn business basics, create your business proposition, and receive honest feedback from skilled mentors and business leaders.

Five locally based programs worthy of consideration:

- Business Plan Competition during Spring semester at the Washington State University offers university and high school students a chance to compete for thousands of dollars to start their businesses.

Lastly, Startup Whitman and Southeast Economic Development offer entrepreneurship, startups and small businesses a suite of consulting, mentoring and educational programs and services designed to jump start and grow local businesses, and connect with federal, state, regional and local resources to promote economic vitality by creating and retaining jobs through business, tourism and community development.

HISTORY
Located at the junction of three streams (South Fork of the Palouse River, Missouri Flat Creek and Dry Creek) in what is now the downtown area Pullman (first known as “Three Forks”) has a rich history going back to the 1870’s. First on the site was Bolin Farm from Missouri who settled on present day Park Street and later built a house there. Second was Daniel McKenzie who came in 1877 and built a small home approximately on the present day location of the Manor Lodge on Paradise Street.

In 1881 Farr and McKenzie platted the town site. The town’s application for a post office called “South Palouse” was rejected by the Post Office Department.

The next application with the town name of Pullman was accepted. One theory is that the adopted name came from George Pullman, the king of the great railroad sleeping car. When informed of the town’s action, the railroad magnate reportedly donated $50 to start a city library.

Soon after, McKenzie invited Mark True to come from Moscow and establish a hotel here. The result was the Palace Hotel located on the southeast corner of Paradise and Kamiakian Streets. The town’s first artesian well was discovered while drilling a well for the hotel. These wells soon attracted newcomers to the area. Railroads came from the west and the north and the town grew and incorporated in 1888.

After Washington gained statehood in 1889, there was fierce competition among the towns east of the Cascades to be the location of the land grant college. The award went to Pullman, the “Artesian City”, and the town was forever changed. The Washington State College was established on the northeast part of Pullman in 1889 opening with 21 students, and the town entered a new era. That small school is now Washington State University with branches in other parts of the state.

Welcome to Pullman. We hope you enjoy your time in our beautiful town. We’re so glad you’re here.
REASONS TO RETIRE HERE!

The national trend for ‘boomers’ is to retire to college towns because of the various amenities. Locals get the advantage of living within an eight-mile radius of two distinguished universities, yet in a small community. Pullman is located 75 miles south of Spokane, and just minutes from Pullman-Moscow Regional Airport. Amid wheat fields, sits a world class university, providing a Pac 12 college life with sport and spirit. Whether you are a Washington State University alum or not, you'll learn to speak ‘Coug’ through athletic events on campus.

HIGH QUALITY OF LIFE, with a modest cost of living. Not only is Pullman home of WSU, it also has several startup tech companies who have chosen to grow roots right here on the Palouse! There are many rental and retirement living options, the median housing price is below the national average, there are no state income taxes and the property taxes are low.

WORLD CLASS PHYSICIANS AND FACILITIES. Pullman Regional Hospital is an award winning critical access hospital recognized for its 5-star care and patient experience. With a comprehensive medical staff of approximately 60 primary care and specialist physicians, we provide quality care close to home. Our Emergency Department is here 24/7 and has a partnership with Life Flight Network that assures transfer to higher level acuity hospitals in Spokane and Seattle if necessary.

NUCLEAR OFFERINGS. Pullmanites have the option to enjoy a plethora of cultural events and activities provided by departments and clubs from WSU, as well as with the talents of our local community. Residents and visitors alike may enjoy a production at one of our theatres. A neighborhood band might take you home with classic rock or a headliner the likes of Elton John, Taylor Swift or ZZ Top could give you a night to remember.

NATIONALLY RECOGNIZED FOR LOW-CRIME RANKINGS. Safewise.com reported that Pullman was rated the eighth safest city in Washington in 2017. With less than 20 crimes per 1,000 people, Pullman is a community where you can feel safe.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR CIVIC ENGAGEMENT or even part time employment. Pullman features dozens of nonprofit organizations that are extremely active in the community. Whether your interest is baking cookies to benefit the town’s 4th of July Celebration, or would prefer pouring beer at the National Lentil Festival to support a local organization such as Whitman County Humane Society, Pullman has numerous options for community minded folk.

EXTENSIVE CITY-WIDE TRANSIT AND TRAIL SYSTEMS. Pullman Transit offers bus service on dozens of routes all days of the week throughout Pullman. In addition, they also operate Dial-A-Ride, a senior service with ADA integration. The trail system is great for daily walks, bike rides or even commuters! In addition, Coast Transportation will take just about anywhere at just about any time (donations appreciated).

READY, SET, ACTION. Retirees benefit from an extremely active Senior Citizens’ Association through Pullman Parks & Rec. Are you up for a bus trip to a Best of Broadway performance in Spokane? Have you been to the Peach Festival in Greenhll? A Cowboy Supper show in Stateline? The opportunities are all around!
With a population of nearly 32,000, Pullman is the pulse of the Palouse, with spectacular natural beauty surrounding its core, while offering urban amenities due to Washington State University perched above it. There is a fresh, small town feel, and the locals are welcoming and excited that you are exploring their area. Situated at an elevation of 2,346 feet, it has a mild climate, clean air while offering urban amenities due to Washington State University perched above it.
